With her strong legal background, her many years working in the mining sector and the fact that she has been an active director of Trilogy Metals since its inception eight years ago, she knows the history of the Company and understands and appreciates the relationships that Trilogy has built in Alaska towards advancing our assets in the Ambler Mining District.", said Rick Van Nieuwenhuysse, President and Chief Executive Officer of the Company. "We are also delighted to welcome James (Jim) Gowans as a director. Jim and I worked together at Placer Dome and he has always had an appreciation for the challenges of developing a mine in Alaska. Jim's previous experience with Cominco Limited, where he oversaw the completion of a feasibility study and the subsequent design and construction of the Red Dog Mine will be valuable to Trilogy Metals as we start the next phase of developing the Arctic mine. Jim also operated the Red Dog Mine for three years following its commissioning. The relationships that he built with the Inupiaq people of Northwestern Alaska will be invaluable as we advance the Ambler Mining District to production".

"We welcome Jim as an independent director to Trilogy Metals", said Janice Stairs, Chair of the Board of Directors of Trilogy Metals. "Not only does Jim bring his tremendous insight and experience in Alaska, but he also developed a well-established and respectful working dynamic with our partner, South32 Limited while he was President and CEO of Arizona Mining Inc."
